

How to Get Help from DOB

The New York City Department of Buildings can be difficult to work with as a small business. When you are building out your storefront, making renovations, or doing any kind of alteration work, you will likely need approvals from DOB. We hear from small businesses in NoHo that this can be challenging and costly.

In 2022, DOB rolled out a new program called "DOB NOW" designed to help small businesses get better, faster, and easier support. You'll be able to indicate exactly what you need help with and get direct assistance. For purposes of this program, we believe that small business is defined as any storefront business that has fewer than 100 employees at a given location, so most should qualify.
