Neighborhood Spotlight: Dawn Fichot of Racked

Stretching is one of the single most important things you can do for your well-being. That's something Dawn Fichot, founder of Racked, knows well. Born out of her own struggles with mobility, Racked is helping New Yorkers with their movement and flexibility one session at a time.

Reminder: NoHo BID Annual Meeting

We're so excited to share what we've been working on over the last year, neighborhood updates, vote in new board members, hear from Borough President Mark Levine and more at our 2022 Annual Meeting. Join us on Tuesday, June 28th at 5:00 PM via Zoom. Get more info and RSVP here.

Welcome to NoHo, Rip 'n' Dip

Online brand Rip 'n' Dip is known for its creative, catty streetwear and merchandise. They just opened up last week with an exciting new storefront that's filled with their iconic cast of brand characters and more inside. We're so thrilled they've chosen NoHo to locate one of their flagship stores. Learn more about Rip 'n' Dip here.

Now in NoHo, Clean Market

There's a new wellness hub on Bleecker Street! Clean Market is now open and offering up a wide array of wellness products in their shop alongside NutriDrip IV Drip Therapy Lounge. They offer up different treatments for whatever you need - more energy, immunity support, or even metabolism boost! Read more about them here.

Mi Abuela, Queen of Nightmares Now Showing at Gene Frankel Theatre

Artist Christine Stoddard is debuting a new show at the beloved Gene Frankel Theatre. Follow the story of Maya, a young immigrant, as she navigates familial relationships, mixed-race identity, fantasy as a coping mechanism, and more. We're also thrilled to partner with them to offer discounted tickets. More here.
