Neighborhood Spotlight: Joan Melnick

Resident and author of The Evolution of a Neighborhood, Joan has lived in NoHo for over 50 years. In honor of the release of her new book, we sat down and interviewed her to discuss her work, the book, and her time in the neighborhood. Read the Spotlight here.

The NoHo Thanksgiving Guide

Whether you want to dine out, prepare a Thanksgiving feast at home, or want to relax over the long weekend, NoHo's a great place to spend the weekend. Our guide covers ways to spend the holiday locally. Check it out here.

Welcome Back, Temple Bar

After a more than five year closure, NoHo's beloved Temple Bar has made a comeback. Helmed by a new group of restaurateurs, it's still the same old place. With the interior almost unchanged, the menu featuring familiar favorites, and the same free popcorn, it's really back. Read more here.

New to the Neighborhood, A Sneaker City

Buy, sell, and trade sneakers and streetwear at NoHo's newest addition to Broadway. A Sneaker City offers up all kinds of hype clothing, shoes, and accessories. Learn more about their store here.

Fun Was Had at the NoHo Business Mixer

It was so great to see everybody who was able to join us at this month's neighborhood business mixer hosted by Great Jones Distillery. If you're interested in hosting the next one, please reach out to us, but in the meantime, enjoy these pictures from the evening.
